

Project Abstract

Yuxuan Du ID:20833765, Xinhui Ding ID:20847981,
Keyi Fan ID:20828108, Xiaoxia Sun ID:20861948

April 5, 2020

Motivation

After entering the 21st century, the world has also entered the information age. With the advent of the network era, blog, as one of the emerging communication media, has become one of the most widely used network communication platforms. Blog, as the most widely used social media at present, has the advantages of simple operation and beautiful interface compared with other social media, and is widely used among users. Compared with traditional media such as E-mail, forum and website, blog is more suitable for the needs of modern users due to its lack of personal personality, freedom and delay. The traditional blog system has been unable to meet the needs of users, and most of the current blog system development focus on enterprises or other social institutions, and the needs of ordinary users less attention. Therefore, it is necessary to create a well-functioning blog system suitable for personal communication and communication.

Goal

We aim to design a website based on Web technology to provide a convenient communication tool for the school photography club. By using the website, students can upload photos taken by themselves and share beautiful moments and things in their lives. Under the basic conditions of community communication, it can make the communication between community members closer and more convenient.